

What is women's role in family and society

Stanley
31, accountant, single

In a family, the woman should be a CMO (chief metaphysics officer), namely, she should give her husband and her child love and spiritual support. In society, I think women are always struggling to compete with men. It's exactly this struggle that makes the society move on so fast. Women are now as competitive as men and therefore the world is definitely better than before.

I don't want to marry any woman, unless she loves and makes noise music as I do. So I guess my ideal woman would be like Sachiko M, the Japanese female noise artist. Women can do anything they want in society, anything!

Xu Xin
32, training specialist, married

A woman should do what she should do in a family. What she should do should be decided by her husband. For me, my wife should satisfy me and our child. Women's role in society is very different from that of men. The role of women is designed by men, so they just make up for men's deficiencies.

Vive Yao

I'm a little woman myself. I think I should give the man I love my faithfulness, my love and a feeling of safety. We should trust each other but give the other space to do what we want. Women have more limitations in society than men. We take family more seriously than men and our nature determines that we have more burdens to bear than men in competition.

Zhao Yanyan
23, journalist, engaged

The man and woman in a family should be equal. They should share the housework, family expenditures and make decisions together. A man will be blamed and looked down upon if he does not have a successful career, but a woman will not. People tend to think that it's normal for a woman to be mediocre at work. They do not expect the same from men and women.

Xu Hong, 46, high school headmaster, married

A woman is the spiritual leader of a family. She gives emotional support and guidance to all family members. Woman's role in a family does not depend on how much housework she does, but how much emotional work she does. Every management team should have a woman included. Women improve efficiency. Women in my school are normally smarter than men.
